Hi Evan

Great news. The BID is mandated to vote on expenditures prior to spending funds. We can definitely add this to our discussions for next year's event. I'm unclear how the councilman's office handles these kind of things. You may want to see if neighborhood council can contribute for this year.

Hey guys. Great news! We're all set with our permit and street closure with the city. We're in a good place with all the logistics of the event.

We were brainstorming about ways to make the event a little more safe for our attendees since Hillhurst is such a major thoroughfare and thought that getting a construction rental company to bring out water filled barricades might be a good solution. We got some quotes and they're a little bit out of our budget for this one. It's a smaller event and we're taking a bit of a loss this year in order to establish ourselves for future events.

Is this something that the BID or city council may have some discretionary budget available for? It would be a huge help. Thanks!
